What makes us different is the way we work with you.

In an industry where consultants hop from agency to agency and impersonal national agencies dominate, you'll find our close-knit team to be a huge asset. Our trained and experienced consultants are friendly, helpful and always approachable to both clients and candidates, and many of our consultants stay with us a long time.

As a client, you'll be assigned a dedicated consultant who will meet you wherever possible. Your consultant will build a personal and business relationship with you – getting to know you properly allows us to provide you with a better service. Your consultant ensures that we fully understand your requirements and that we select the right candidates for your organisation.

Our approach, a proven process of matching your requirements and the dynamics of your business to the career opportunity and the capabilities of our candidate, means we can often help you in ways that go beyond just filling a role. Our knowledge of your business and experience of recruitment and employment in general often mean we are well placed to advise you on personnel issues.

We want to exceed your expectations of a recruitment agency.

Did you know?

Many of our clients have been with us since the early stages of their businesses and still work closely with us to continually satisfy their recruitment needs.

We constantly expand and update our database of several thousand quality applicants by continual targeted advertising and marketing activities within a variety of local and national media. This includes well-established job boards, local and national press, relevant trade publications and exhibitions, job fairs, internet advertising and previous applicant referral. This gives us more opportunity to find the right people for you.

The Hunterskill reputation and business continues to grow. Since its launch in 2003, we have successfully been placing people into permanent and temporary roles. We supply a variety of local businesses as well as filling vacancies across the UK for multi-national companies.
